What’s new in Honors at Iowa? The fall 2013 Honors newsletter brings you warm greetings from Honors Director Art Spisak, who reflects on some surprises experienced in getting the new University Honors curriculum up and running. First-year students who participated in Honors Primetime workshops discuss “Life’s Trajectory,” spurred on by interviews with mentors. We introduce new staff member Suzanne Carter and farewell long-time Honors Activities Director LaShelle Christiansen; visit with Honors alum Tyler Lechtenberg, now a speechwriter for First Lady Michelle Obama; and honor our founder, Rhodes Dunlap. In Student Profiles, a regular feature, outstanding members Nick Rolston and Aly Olson offer insight based on their experiences. Access the fall 2013 issue from the home page of our website honors.uiowa.edu (click on The Honors Newsletter) or find it, along with earlier issues, in the newsletter archives: http://honors.uiowa.edu/newsletter-archive.

Want to ask a peer about the Honors Program? Talk to an Honors Peer Advisor! We’re holding drop-in office hours this week in 306 BHC:
- Paige Weber— Monday 2:30-7pm
- Macaulay Elliot-Hudson—Thursday 8-11
- Austin Marcolina— Friday 12:30-2pm
Or read Peer Advisor profiles and email the peer of your choice to set up an appointment.

Check out ICRU’s new Website! www.uiowa.edu/icru.

Do you have artwork just sitting around your room? Hang it up in the Honors Gallery and show the world your masterpiece! If you’re an art student, you can get credit for hanging your artwork. You don’t have to be an Art Major though — anyone can hang work in the gallery! We want to display your photos, paintings, sketches, or anything else you can think of. Contact Amanda Hart (amanda-c hart@uiowa.edu) to display your work in our gallery. We hope to see your art around the BHC soon!

Do you have a truly remarkable mom or dad?
Mortar Board and Associated Iowa Honors Students (AIHS) are teaming up to find an outstanding mom and dad within the honors community. The Awards Ceremony will take place on Friday, October 25th from 5:30 to 6:30 in 101 BCSB auditorium. The winning family will be recognized at the event and win a "night out on the town" on Mortar Board and AIHS. (This prize can be used at the family’s discretion). All of the donations that we receive at the event will go to AIHS’s chosen charity, the chiLD Foundation for Children’s Interstitial Lung Disease.
To nominate your parent for 2013 Honors Mom or Dad of the Year, please submit the following to katherine-kemmer@uiowa.edu:
- A one-page paper (12 font) of 1) why you believe your mom or dad should be recognized by the honors community and 2) how they have contributed to the person that you are today
- You are allowed to nominate more than one parent, but a separate paper will need to be submitted for each candidate

We look forward to reviewing your submission. The deadline is Wednesday, October 23rd. The final candidates and overall winners will be named at the ceremony. We will also have an honors guest speaker and more games and prizes that can be won at the event. This is a great opportunity to acquaint your parents with the honors community at Iowa and have a fun evening with the family. We encourage all members of the honors program to bring their families even if they are not in the competition.
