Scholarships | International Students

Many scholarships and fellowships require US citizenship or residency. Below is a list of resources to assist international students interested in pursuing national fellowships while attending the University of Iowa as an undergraduate or graduate student, are encouraged to consider the opportunities listed in Scholarships for International Students*, a catalog of approximately 100 scholarship competitions which welcome applications from international students.

- UI ISSS • international.uiowa.edu/iss/current/financial/scholarships-administered-iss
- National Scholarships for International Students • National Association of Fellowship Advisors
- International Education Financial Aid • <http://www.iefa.org/>
- Institute for International Education • www.fundingusstudy.org/

A big thank you to Doug Cutchins, and the generous group of professionals from the National Association of Fellowships Advisors, who put so much time and energy into the support of international students on their own campuses and who are willing to share their knowledge with the rest of us.*

Are you an undergraduate student or recent alum who is looking for the challenge and financial support of a national scholarship?

Are you a motivated and focused researcher, writer or performer who is ready to seek the investment of external foundations and organizations while connecting with a peer community?

If so, we recommend the following steps:

- Keep your eye out for expert advice and award announcements on Facebook and Twitter!
- Investigate your options on campus and at the national level (for both undergraduate and post-graduate funding) using our year-by-year or discipline-specific guides.
- Check out our scholar development library – Electronic and paper guides designed to help you expand and/or refine your approach to your funding search and or application development for both scholarships and graduate school. These resources may be found on our website, on bulletin boards around campus and in the BHC and in our Peer Advisor Office Resource Library.
- Have questions? Interested in a particular scholarship or fellowship? Contact our Scholar Development Director at kelly-thornburg@uiowa.edu or call 319-335-1874 to schedule a conference.
